Looking for a bit of old school Upper East Side New York in the heart of the Marina? Look no further than Perry's, a San Francisco staple founded 38 years ago by Perry Butler. Make yourself at home at this casual bar and grill and enjoy a nice bite, a good drink, and friendly conversation. The eclectic crowd consists of multiple generations of Perry's fans, along with newly arrived young urbanites. Classic American fare never goes out of style, and Perry's delivers. Their cheeseburgers are famous city-wide and they also dish out traditional and unique salads, sandwiches, steaks, chops and fresh fish daily. Word has it that their sautéed petrale sole can go up against any in town. Enjoy traditional appetizers like potato skins, calamari, or artichokes as you gossip with friendly bartenders. And don't miss any-day-of-the-week brunch treats like Eggs Benedict and Eggs Blackstone. Enjoy the sun and people-watching outdoors or settle inside surrounded by Perry's own personal collection of memorabilia, which captures great moments in sports, politics and history. Perry's successful formula of good food, generously poured drinks and comfortable atmosphere is sure to please among the cookie-cutter hipster joints that come and go.
